SUMMU A Novel
By Dorothea Benton Frank

What makes an Original Pawleys Island hammock even better? A good book, of course!

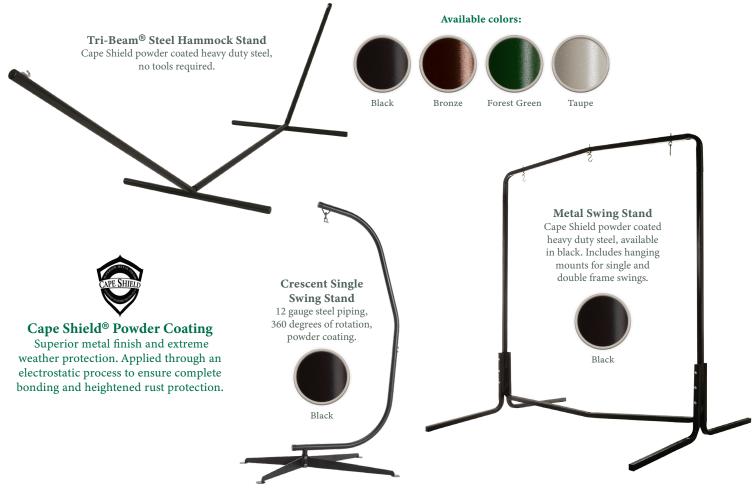

Catapulted from her home, her marriage and her children, artist Rebecca Simms has come to Pawleys Island to hide herself from herself. Little does she know that on this "arrogantly shabby" family playground, she'll encounter three people who will change her life: a wise and irresistible octogenarian who will pry her secrets from her, a gallery owner who caters to interior decorators and heaven save us, tourists, and a retired attorney from Columbia who's complacent in her fat and sassy life until Rebecca's stormy advent.

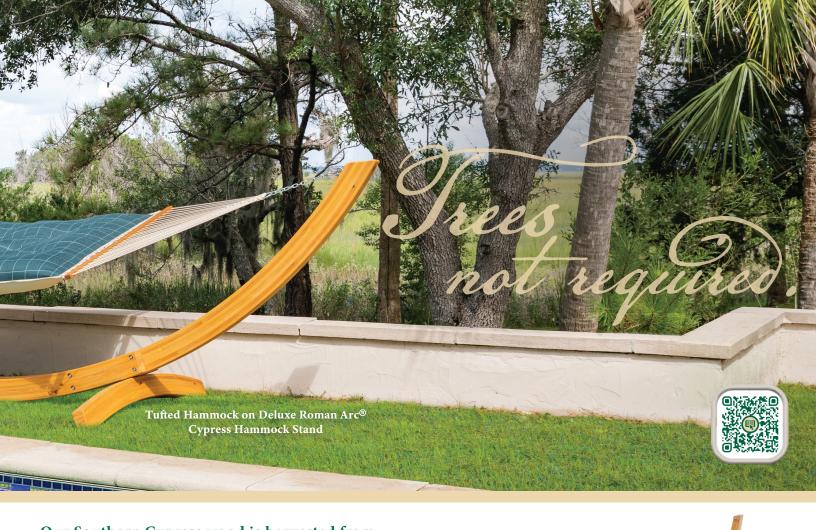

With characteristic humor and a full cast of eccentric and wonderfully lovable characters, Dorothea Benton Frank brings us a refreshingly honest and funny novel about friendship, family, and finding happiness by becoming who you are meant to be...

Sweet Tea

Outside of the business of perfecting relaxation, one of the things that we take seriously is hospitality. Nothing shows hospitality more than cooking a great meal and inviting friends and family over to share it. Here in Pawleys Island we can argue all day about the best dish to serve. Favorites such as shrimp and grits, BBQ, fried green tomatoes with pimento cheese, and biscuits can all spark heated discussions but the one thing we can all agree on is our beloved sweet iced tea. Sweet tea is an integral part of our everyday life and just so happens to go perfectly with a soft sway in a hammock or time spent catching up with loved ones on the porch while sitting in one of our low country rockers.

Sweet Iced Tea

- Bring 4 or 5 cups of water to a boil then remove from heat.
- Drop in 3 family-sized tea bags (Lipton® or Luzianne® are good options); dunk them a few times to soak them through and let the strings hang over the side of the pot.
- Let the bags steep for 5 minutes or so, then pull them out.
- Dump in some sugar, a good starting point is 1 cup and then you can go up from there.
- Give it a good stir.
- Pour this into a pitcher and fill the rest of the way with water.
- Put it in the refrigerator to cool down, a couple hours will do.
- Pour it over ice, add a squeeze of lemon if you prefer and enjoy!
- It will last in the fridge for a week, but ours never makes it that long.

It's More Than Just a Hammock in a Box

Hammocks are more than a purchase made, they are memories. Memories of a time and place, memories of people in our lives and of those no longer with us. My memories that are interlaced with an Original Pawleys Island Cotton Rope Hammock go back as far as my early childhood. The pictures tell me it was 1983 and I was 5 years old.

My Earliest Memories -

We had family that had a place in Pawleys Island, SC that we were invited to spend time during what I thought to be endless summer months. Growing up on a tobacco farm in the piedmont of North Carolina it might as well have been the Bahamas, BVI's, or the Seychelle Islands to my young mind, even though I had no clue those places existed either. To me, that place was an adventure, and time with my extended family that left an impression on me that would ultimately guide my path to where I sit today writing this story. On these trips, I learned a love for saltwater, and not just the water beside the sandy beaches so bright that you had to squint when the sun is high, but the marsh where my cousins taught me the art of catching crabs and the simple joy of walking through the estuary to see what you might find, and the glorious feeling of the mud between your toes. I can smell it now.

The days there were filled with family coming and going; out to the beach, over to the marsh, maybe golf for my dad and uncles. Always a lot of eating; sandwiches on the beach, big pots of steaming seafood at night, my mom's homemade cinnamon buns and my uncle's famous pancakes at breakfast. Through all the comings and goings and ins and outs of the house there was always one constant, one place that was sought after, one place that was coveted. The hammock on the porch. It was always occupied. My aunt's favorite spot for coffee in the morning, my mom's place to read her summer novel, and all of the men's favorite spot for an afternoon nap with the gentle offshore breeze. The time, the place, and the hammock are all woven together to create my memories, and unknown to me, my path for the future. More on that a bit later.

In my parents' infinite wisdom and on one of their comings and goings during those days they decided to stop by the Pawleys Island Hammock shop and make a purchase. At that time to me and to them it was just a hammock in a box, but it would become so much more. Also around that time, my parents decided to acquire a small cabin beside Lake James near my father's birthplace in the mountains near Morganton, NC. The hammock in the box was promptly hung on the screen porch that was shaded by the mimosa trees and surrounded by mountain laurels.

My Dad and Mom, May 1983, Pawleys Island, SC

The summers following that cabin and the hammock on the porch followed me through my childhood days into adolescence. Whether it was a quick drive up on a Saturday after I finished up my little league baseball game or week-long vacations with family and friends in tow it became my new place for imagination and adventure. From days on the lake fishing and jumping off the rocks down the wooded trail from the cabin to heated ping pong matches at other family's nearby cabin, to

"A family business steeped in tradition and the values that permeated my childhood and where the hammocks are still handcrafted in the Carolinas to this day."

charades and endless card games at night, family was always present. Coming and going, in and out, and of course, eating and relaxing. My family is very adept at the art of relaxing and the constant once again was the Pawleys island hammock.

· Relaxing, It's a Family Tradition -

I have memories of my late Grandpa, a tobacco farmer who came from generations of farmers and did not know the word relax, finding time to lay in the hammock, swaying away the early evening hour listening to the cicadas and crickets begin their nightly orchestra. These days were not wasted but time spent purposefully with this same gentle sway. Times when we would all pile in and swing and smile, creating moments and memories that would last. As I grew older but not up the cabin was sold and the trips to Pawleys island were replaced with Oak Island North Carolina where the hammock was once again hung and the memories continued.

Me and My Grandpa, August 1983, Lake James, Morganton, NC

Now back to that "a little bit later part". In the fall of 1996, it was time for me to head off to college, and the yearning to be close to the salt air that I knew from my early years guided me to The University of North Carolina at Wilmington. These years passed in a flash and after graduation, I decided to follow in my dad's footsteps and return to my roots back in High Point, NC and begin a career in the home furnishings industry, and more importantly the outdoor casual marketplace. Throughout this time there were always trips to Oak Island and to family's cabins at the lake where the hammock hung, the comings and goings, the ins and outs, and the memories grew. After 18 years of pouring my heart into my work, a new opportunity arose or should I say swung by. It was to be a part of the company that has been hand-weaving those simple hammocks in the box for over 130 years. A family business steeped in tradition and the values that permeated my childhood and where the hammocks are still handcrafted in the Carolinas to this day.

My Brother, Mom and I. May 1984 Lake James, Morganton, NC

Continuing the Tradition -

I didn't start out as a part of the family that brought The Original Pawleys Island Hammock to the world but I feel like family, and I am proud to be a part of that family, proud to be a part of bringing those hammocks in a box to other families so they can sway, swing, laugh, smile, nap and most importantly capture those moments in their minds, creating their memories and weaving their own story for years to come.
